

Jackson & Cora

Hi! We're Jackson and Cora. We're a faith-centered couple who feel deeply called to adopt and would love to provide a child with a life full of love, security, and belonging, while always honoring their story.

We met in college and quickly became best friends. We love doing everyday life together whether that's being outside, cooking at home, or spending time with family and friends. Creating a home that feels warm, safe, and full of joy is really important to us.

We live in Nebraska in a welcoming, family-friendly community. Cora is a Labor and Delivery nurse who loves caring for others and looks forward to being a stay-at-home mom. Jackson is an attorney who is kind, steady, and family-oriented. He's also proud of his Native American heritage as a member of the Miami Tribe of Indiana.

Family is a big part of our lives. Cora's parents live in California, so we travel there often to visit, and we stay closely connected with both of our families.

We feel incredibly grateful to be on this adoption journey and would be honored to walk it with you.

Fun Facts:

- We have two dogs, a Golden Retriever named Rosie and an English Shepherd named Millie
- We love to play pickleball, go on walks, and staying active
- Cora loves crafting (sewing, baking, and embroidery)
- Jackson is a big Huskers fan
- We love traveling (Italy was a favorite!)

We are so excited to meet you!
